Report: Christmas was merrily celebrated by the students at Khyati College Of Pharmacy on the 23rd of December. Christmas is an event celebrated all over the world where all the friends, family, and loved ones come together and celebrate the birth of Christ. The students along with the teachers and Principal, all came together and filled the campus with magical Christmas vibes by decorating the surrounding with a Christmas theme. The students were all dressed in white and red. The appearance of a Santa Claus and his grand entry was the highlight of the event. The environment at KCP was filled with joy, happiness, and unmatched vibes only Christmas can bring. Principal, Dr. Pragnesh Patani, delivered a special speech, greeting everyone with a very happy and prosperous Christmas. Students exchanged gifts, greeting cards and Christmas wishes with their friends and beloved teachers, making the event even more special and prosperous. This event helped the students to overcome their anxiety thus educating them that sometimes one must stop thinking about the problems and let their inner child out and have a laugh and spread smiles on the faces of others around. This event really helped the juniors to interact with their seniors and also to encourage more and more participation of students. And after seeing the enthusiasm of the student's principal has decided that there would be a bike rally organized in near future.
